Do you ever wonder
If they understand you when you don't speak
Eyes are full of void
And your heart destroyed

Have you been a stranger
In a room where you were told you belong
Never once complained
Nothing to be gained

No matter who you're with now
No matter where you're bound
Just listen to the leaves now
Their rustle on the ground
It's all that matters, boy
There's nothing to destroy
It passes and it goes
The rhythm never slows

Do you ever wonder
Maybe you are the only one who can see
Past the veiled disguise of your mirror's lies
Am I seeking shelter?
Can I be a shelter to someone else?
Do I know the rules?
Are there any rules?

No matter who you're with now
No matter where you're bound
Just listen to the leaves now
Their rustle on the ground
It's all that matters, boy
There's nothing to destroy
It passes and it goes
The rhythm never slows
