

We're driving along the old country road
The sky is on fire and the trees are green
You're singing a song
A beautiful song
You're taking me places that I've never seen

But somewhere within I'm feeling a sting
That won't let me be happy, no matter what
It's hard to believe that this time it's real
Cause it all sounds the same

I have been preparing for the fall
Just in case you decide to let go
I've been preparing for the fall
Just in case you decide to let go

You're saying to me these beautiful things
When you hold my hand I feel strong
I wanna believe your feelings are real
I wanna open up and just let it go

But somewhere within I'm feeling a sting
That won't let me be happy, no matter what
So anxious and scared, it's like I'm impaired
Am I wasting my time?

I have been preparing for the fall
Just in case you decide to let go
I've been preparing for the storm
That will follow when you are gone

In your eyes I can see that you're honest with me
Or at least that is what I wanna believe
In your soul I can tell that you're honest as well
Could be a mistake, another mistake?

I have been preparing for the fall
Just in case you decide to let go
I've been preparing for the storm
That will follow when you are gone

yan

